STATE CAPITOL NEWS

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— Liquor enforcement in the future will be in the hands of inspectors of the state board of equalization.

This new policy taking liquor control entirely out of the jurisdiction of local police was the first administrative change ordered following the election of R. E. Collins as chairman of the board, succeeding Ray L. Riley.

The change was voted as a means of eliminating "divided authority."

A total of 2,622,782 persons will be eligible to vote in the special election August 13, according to Frank Jordan, secretary of state. The total represents a drop of 517,332 from the all-time high registration of 3,140,114 for the general election last November.

Actual work on the Central Valley project, for which the federal government has allocated $20,000,000, probably will not start until next spring, according to Earl Lee Kelly, state director of public works. Kelly said that technical requirements relative to bids, plans and specifications probably would delay work until that time, Although the money was apportioned for immediate unemployment relief.

One of the first things that R. Ray Ingels did on taking office as the new director of the state department of motor vehicles was to call in all state cars in his department except those operated by Russell Bevans, registrar of motor vehicles, and E. Raymond Cato, chief of the highway patrol. Ingles said there would be no more "joy riding" under his administration; that state cars were to be used for official business only.

After having gone into various employment phases both in Los Angeles and San Francisco, the special senate civil service investigating committee arrived here this week to determine to what extent the "spoils system" has undermined civil service requirements.

State officials are hoping to collect $2,500,000 in back taxes from privately owned public utilities as the result of a state supreme court ruling reversing an earlier decision. The new decision holds that the utility corporations have no right to escape their automobile license fees and franchise taxes simply because their properties are being returned from the state to local tax rolls.

The utilities contended their old state gross receipts taxes, which were in lieu of all other taxes, had been paid up to July 1 of this year and therefore they were not liable for the first half of other taxes due as a result of the return to local rolls.

Suit Over Murder Filed In Superior Court

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— A suit to determine whether murder constitutes "accidental death" is on file in superior court here.

The action was filed by Mrs. Julia A. Del Prado to obtain payment of a $2,500 accident insurance policy issued her husband, Manuel Del Prado. Del Prado was beaten to death by John Hyden, now serving a life term in Utah penitentiary for the crime.

The insurance company is contesting claim on the ground Mrs. Del Prado failed to show her husband met an accidental death.

Forestry Officials Ask Co-operation From Public

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— Co-operation of campers has been requested by forestry officials in an effort to minimize the hazard of a predicted serious forest fire season this year.

As an aid in preventing fires, the division asked the public to observe the following rules:

Do not throw any burning substance out of a car; report any fire to the rangers; be sure your camp fire is out; carry a shovel and an axe; obtain camp fire permits before traveling in forests; smoke only at places of habitation.

Miss Carmen Cruz of Sacramento is spending a two weeks vacation with Miss Rose Mattos.

ELECTION ON STATE BONDS TUESDAY

Three Issues Before the Voters, Bond Issue of $13,950,000 Proposed, Authorize Short Term Borrowing Of Money and Water Supply for State Institutions.

On Tuesday, August 13th the voters will be called on to decide the three issues on the special election ballot.

The first would authorize the issuance and sale of $13,950,000 of state bonds for the purpose of constructing buildings at state institutions, state prisons and other state buildings. Over eighty-five per cent of the proposed bond issue will be used to construct additional patient units at each of the several state hospitals, state homes and prisons throughout the state. The balance of the money will be used to provide additional required office space at the State Capitol and at the State Building at Los Angeles.

The second proposition would permit the state to borrow money from banks at one per cent or less in anticipation of the collection of taxes and revenues, which are payable into the general fund in the state treasury. Ample safeguards would be placed around such borrowings. Not more than fifty per cent of the amount of all taxes and revenues paid into the general fund during the preceding fiscal year may be borrowed by the state and all such borrowing must be repaid within one year.

Proposition three would authorize the Director of Finance to enter a contract with the Rector Dam Authority to secure water for state institutions.

There are four state institutions situated in the Napa Valley which are badly in need of water. The state owns a water site there which is capable of furnishing all these institutions well if a dam can be constructed in Rector Canyon to conserve the water supply but the state has never had sufficient funds to build the dam required. A PWA loan and grant to build the dam could be obtained. Under the federal agreement the federal government will make a direct gift or grant of 30 per cent of the money required to build the dam and construct the pipelines to the state institutions. The balance of the money needed could be borrowed from the government at a low interest rate. The state would purchase water from the Rector Dam Authority at the same rates she would have to pay private companies and at the end of the contract would own her own dam on state property and the state institutions will be assured of a perpetual water supply for all time without further cost.

"Not only has the hatch of ducks been excellent in the higher locations, but in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys."

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— A slight decrease in the general level of prices received by California farmers during July was reported by the federal-state market news service.

"Prices for cotton have increased, but livestock prices have declined and prices of a number of commodities are about the same as a month ago," the report stated.

"The index of prices received by farmers in June was 104 per cent of the pre-war average, compared with 108 in May, the recent high of 111 in April and 85 in June, 1934."

Motor Vehicle Dept. Has New Director

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— California now has a full-time director of the department of motor vehicles whose major aims are to make the highways safer for the motorist, provide efficient registration service to the public, and effect as many economies as possible within the department.

When R. Ray Ingels, former state senator and highway commissioner, assumed the office to which he was appointed by Gov. Frank F. Merriam he said:

"I shall devote myself particularly to the task of giving special attention to ridding the highways of drunken, reckless and careless drivers. I have no specific plans in mind for the accomplishment of the task and expect to have none until I have made a thorough study of the entire situation."

Ingels succeeded Theodore Roche San Francisco, an appointee of the late Gov. James Rolph, Jr. Roche received only $1 a year, handling the post more as a favor to the governor. Merriam felt the department should have a full-time, salaried director. The legislature agreed, and Ingels will receive $6,000 a year beginning September 15.

Most important of the positions under Ingels are those held by E. Raymond Cato, chief of the highway patrol, and Russell Bevans, registrar of motor vehicles. Merriam has indicated both these men will be retained, to receive permanent civil service rating August 20.

Ingels said he had no intention of causing an upheaval in the department and that the rank and file of employes had nothing to fear. He will seek to operate on an economical basis compatible with efficiency and good service to the public, and he may combine the duties of employes whose functions overlap.

The new director is experienced in public service. Born in Indiana and educated in the public schools of Fresno, he graduated from the University of California's college of agriculture in 1913, became engaged as a farmer, ranch foreman and university extension specialist. He entered the army as a private during the war an emerged as a lieutenant in command of a battery of artillery. After the war, he started ranching near Ukiah.

He was elected to the assembly in 1929 and to the senate in 1931. Merriam appointed him to the highway commission in May, 1935, and as director of motor vehicles July 24.

TRUCKEE RIVER FLOW IS SLIGHT

Immediate action to provide water for irrigation for Nevada farmers became necessary when the flow of the Truckee River was a mere dribble with the cutting off of drainage from Donner Lake.

The 5,400 acre feet of water purchased by the federal government from Donner Lake now is used up.

Robert Bankofier, rural resettlement director for Nevada expects an answer soon from a request to use funds from his organization for the financing of pumping activities at Lake Tahoe. If the funds are available, then an agreement between water users and property owners at Lae Tahoe will be sought.

Only three ditches in the Truckee Meadows are carrying irrigation water.

Water for stock drinking and domestic purposes only will be available, except for those with extremely early priority water rights.

Supervisors Asked To Repair Local Jail

At the chamber of commerce meeting held on Monday, a discussion was held as to the condition of the local jail and the county jail at Nevada City, and it was the concensus of opinion that the Board of Supervisors should be asked to make necessary repairs to both jails. This repair work could be done under a WPA project no doubt, with little expense to the county.

The jail at Truckee is in a deplorable condition and several grand juries have recommended that the jail be put in a decent condition, but nothing has been done about this up to the present.

While considerable money is being spent on the court house at Nevada City no attempt is being made towards improving the conditions in the county jail.

The chamber of commerce voted to send a letter to the Board of Supervisors urging them to take such steps as may be necessary to bring about the reconstruction of both the local and county jail.

Board of Supervisors Approve New Alley Lines

The Board of Supervisors have issued an order abandoning 10 feet in the alley in the rear of the business blocks on Commercial Row and a portion of Spring Street near the Truckee AAA Garage.

Many of the owners of the business blocks on Commercial Row objected to the narrowing of the alley as it caused a fire menace, but due to the fact that many brick buildings have been built over the line it was decided to abondon ten feet of the alley and re-establish a new line for the alley and the street.

ANOTHER DREAM COMING TRUE

California editors generally hailed allotment of federal funds to start the central valleys water project as another dream come true.

Construction of the project, it was noted, means employment for thousands and the eventual relief of hard-pressed farmers in arid districts.

Announcement by the federal allotment board of a definite appropriation of $20,000,000 as a start for the water project, said the Tulare Daily Advance-Register, "surmounts the final obstacle. All credit is due to those who have fostered the water project from the pioneer days of its inception up to the present moment of its actual realization. And with its assurance comes permanent stabilization of property, agricultural and business values for all of California."

"It means," said the Ventura County Star, "the salvation of the great central valley called 'the bread basket of California.' But of more intimate interest, it means work and wages for thousands of California's unemployed. No greater step toward recovery has been taken by this state than this $20,000,000 allotment makes possible now. Let the dirt begin to fly and every Californian rejoice.' "

This relief, points out the Santa Barbara Daily News, "comes at a time when citizens are desperate. Water levels have slowly but steadily been falling and hundreds of acres of fertile soil, once producing profitable crops of fruit, grain and vegetables, have been returning to desert, confronting that section with an almost irreparable economic loss. Moreover, the twenty millions will be but the beginning of a total of $170,000,000 eventually to be spent on the project, as is evidenced by the fact that the government, instead of completing any single unit of the project with the initial appropriation, intends to start the work over the entire sector, thus insuring its ultimate completion."

"Everyone in this state," remarks the Marysville Appeal-Democrat, "would favor the central valley project if it is to be carried out with federal money, without obligation for repayment on the part of California. Such objections as have been raised to the water plan in the past have not been against the development itself, but against impossible financing or financing that would place a heavy burden of debt upon the state."

"It is impossible," according to the Humbolt Standard, "to over estimate the importance of this project in its relation to the future of California. Completion of the work will save vast areas of land in the valley from reverting to desert by providing an abundant supply of water. All California will share in the economic improvement that must necessarily ensue."

"While the project will require $170,000,000 to complete," notes the Bakersfield Californian. "it is satisfactory that a start has been made. The fact that the government has allocated this $20,000,000 to start it is an assurance that it will be finished, and that it has won the approval of the administration on its merits.

REAL ESTATE PROSPECT

If Walter S. Schmidt, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards knows what he is talking about, realty is going to have another inning and a good one. Here is his picture of the situation:

"Alternatives confronting this country are three—inflation; collapse accompanied by drastic social and political changes; or, renewed prosperity. Whatever comes, realty owners will be in most enviable positions. With inflation, tangible goods, of which realty is chief, have surer and larger increment than any other form of wealth. As currency worth decreases, prices soar and incumbrances—fixed—are paid in depreciated dollars Revolutionary changes may destroy rights, but hardly those of real estate, since over half of our people have a stake in the land. Again, returning prosperity rapidly will rehabilitate real estate."

It is a natural view for a real estate man to take. But admitting a professional interest in making as good a case as possible, intelligent and disinterested observers find it hard to pick flaws in the argument. Real estate, our greatest form of wealth, is doubtless bound to come back if anything does. And it will not require "dangerous inflation" to bring back realty values and real estate activity. Normal business expansion will do it.

Politically Speaking

By GEARGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— Expected in political circles for the past few weeks and predicted in this column some time ago, the upheaval on the state board of equalization which returned the Stewart-Collins faction to power came after nearly seven months of undercurrent tension which had caused open friction among the members.

There had been trouble on the board ever since the first meeting in January when Miss Orfa Jean Shontz, Los Angeles, new member, and John C. Corbett, San Francisco, threw their support to ex-officio member Ray L. Riley, state controller, to make him chairman of the board in place of Richard E. Collins, Redding, who had held the post for 20 years.

During that hectic week in January, events transpired so swiftly that Collins and his minority partner, Fred E. Stewart, Oakland, were left gasping. With only two votes against three, they could do nothing to stop the majority faction from throwing out Stewart appointees right and left. Many of these were reappointed to positions in Stewart's district, but the friction which developed failed to be overcome by time.

One major point in the argument in January was centered on police cooperation in liquor enforcement. Stewart wanted the board to handle all the enforcement duties. Riley insisted upon dividing enforcement with police.

There also was some disagreement over the question of collecting sales taxes on tango games, a practice started last year when Stewart and Collins were running the board.

From January on, the Riley-Shontz-Corbett regime dictated policies of the board. Stewart and Collins had little to say, confined their activities to their own districts, and declined to be quoted on general board policies. Riley became the spokesman for the group.

Interest turned from the board to the legislature and the situation quieted down outwardly. Then Riley took a trip to Mexico City. The board met in his absence—while he was enroute home—and the upheaval occurred in orderly planned-in-advance fashion.

In executive session, with the press and public barred, Stewart read a prepared statement in which he nominated Collins for the chairmanship to succeed Riley, largely on the ground that duties of the board had grown to such an extent that the chairman should be responsible directly to the people and should be able to devote his entire attention to the board.

Miss Shontz, who in seven months had learned a great deal about the board's duties and worries, seconded the motion and followed the same line of reasoning as Stewart. She also recommended that the board vest in each member sole

Clark of Guth-A-Winga, is one of the lucky boys to depart on August 13th from San Francisco to partake in the First National Jamboree of Boy Scouts to be held in Washington, D. C. at the invitation of President Roosevelt. Over 30,000 scouts and leaders will assemble there to participate in the festivities and will hail from all quarters of the United States.

On Wednesday, July 31st, a regrettable accident occurred at the Southern Pacific crossing on the highway near the Tahoe telephone exchange building. Professor and Mrs. Henry Hinkle were the luckless victims who suffered painful injuries and wrecked their family automobile. As near as can be ascertained, they approached the tracks from the north, or town side on their way toward Homewood for a ride about 10:00 p. m. The engine and tender switching around to make up the passenger train which leaves nightly at 10:30 p. m. moving slowly, slid along the rails, unheard and unseen by the Hinkles. According to Southern Pacific officials, no signal man is required by law to stand at this crossing, the white posts with black printed signs warning motorists to "Stop, Look and Listen" and the reflecting danger signal, placed prominently on the north approach of the tracks, fulfilling the requirments of the law and accepted by the courts of the land. Before the Hinkles were aware of it's presence, the slinking iron horse crept down upon them, striking the right side of their sedan, when they were just about the middle of the tracks, almost completely demolishing it and painfully injuring them both. Mrs. Hinkle, who sat on the side which was struck, received a compound fracture of the arm, broken wrist and splintered shoulder, Mr. Hinkle a broken nose and cuts from flying glass, both bruised and shocked by the terrific impact. Dr. Pedersen administered first aid and then rushed them both to Hobart Mills Hospital, X-rays were taken and Mrs. Hinkle is still confined to the hospital for treatment.

The trial of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Marshall charged with selling liquor to an intoxicated person, will be held at the Tahoe Women's Club house at 3 p. m. on Friday.

After covering eight of the fourteen miles in his attempt to swim from Glenbrook, Nevada to Tahoe Tavern, Clay Sherman, 21 year old swimmer was taken from the icy waters of the lake when he was seized with cramps which tied both his legs and shoulders in knots. The eight miles were made in three hours and thirty-five minutes, an average of better than 2 miles an hour. Had he been able to continue he would have crossed the lake in about six hours. Sherman swam smoothly and steadily using the Australian crawl. Near the beginning of the eighth mile cramps siezed his shoulders and legs but he managed to work them out and continue. His manager Gregory Van Brunt noticing his distress signaled for hot tea. Five minutes after he had swallowed the tea, Van Brunt called to him but received no answer. He played the flashlight upon the waters only to discover Sherman was swimming beneath it's dark surface almost out of sight. Quickly Van Brunt went to his assistance and drew the nearly unconscious boy into the canoe and he was taken aboard the Navajo where first aid was rendered. He was taken to his home and attended by Dr. Pedersen. Sherman was none the worse for his swim the next morning and left in the afternoon for his home in Oakland.

Sherman entered the water at Dead Man's Point at 12:20 and was taken from the water by his manager at 3:55 a. m.

The Navajo piloted by Chas. Kendrick Jr., the Quic-cha-kidn with Captain Bert Watson and the 14-foot canoe of George 'Mucchi" Madena, Tavern boatman, which was the convoy for the swimmer, followed the course of the swimmer. On board the boats were Miss Edna Sherman, sister of the swimmer, Miss Barbara Gene Hill, Chas. Kendrick, Jr., Ed and Ced Porter, Gregory Van Brunt, manager, Mucchi Maden, and Brad Webster of Oakland, Kieth Topping, Jack Hogue, Eleanor Swanson, Marie Miller, Captain Bert Watson and his wife, Violet Brodehl and Robert Pomin.

NORDEN NEWS

After much study upon the life and habits of the finny tribe, Louis Featsent of Norden went out with a determined effort last Sunday and brought in a fine 2½ pound German Brown trout. His companions, Joseph Casari and George Drew did equally as well with a two pound trout each.

Mrs. Angie Bealls of Norden had some unusual experience along the shores of Lake Van Norden last week-end, nevertheless fish adorned the breakfast table.

Recent arrivals in Norden included Hans Halderson and John Kinsey who arrived from Verdi on Monday to be stationed at Norden for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Okla Sensley spent Monday evening in Truckee on business.

After a two week visit with her son at Norden, Mrs. Louisa Kramer has returned to her home in Sacramento.

The Thomas Eversalt home on Highway Court was filled with friends who arrived from the Valley over last week-end.

Mrs. Joseph Gowling, former owner of the historic Summit Hotel before being razed by fire several years ago, came up from Sacramento to be with her daughter Mrs. John Sherritt and grandson James for an indefinite stay.

Mrs. John Sherritt and son James are at their summer home on the shores of Lake Van Norden for the season.

Ray Bogue who came up from Sacramento to visit with Billy Kramer of Summit has returned to his home in Sacramento.

Charles Church and family have returned to their home in Sacramento.

Albert Proteau is on a few days vacation which is being spent among friends about the Bay.

Kenneth Lyons made a hurried trip to Sacramento via the highway on business.

Leroy Ralston was a business visitor to Los Angeles.

C. J. Sanford has returned to his home in Ashland, Oregon.

Late Rains Increased Forest Fire Hazard

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— Forest fires in California have been held well in control to date but the state faces a critical period during the next two months, according to State Forester M. B. Pratt.

Actual damage to forests as well as the number of fires has been substantially lower than last year, principally because of heavy rains late in the season.

"These rains, which reduced the hazard early in the fire season, are responsible for a more dangerous situation at the present time. Heavy growths of grass have become dry and must be guarded against any hint of fire if we are to avoid loss," Pratt warned.

"Persons throughout California must recognize this dry undergrowth as the state's most serious fire hazard and be careful of cigarets, matches, campfires and the like."

Federal forestry officials also reported fewer fires this year in the 18 national forests of the state.

State Officials' Views On Proposition No. 2

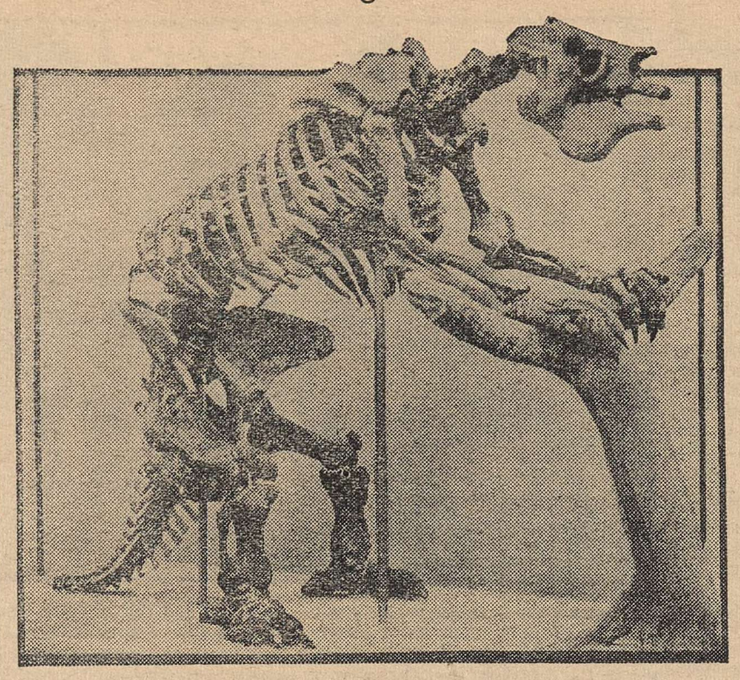
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— An estimated saving of $1,200,000 every two years would be possible if proposition No. 2 on the special election ballot August 13 is approved by the people according to state officials.

The proposition would authorize the state government to borrow money from banks at 1 per cent interest or less in anticipation of taxes and other revenues payable into the general fund.

The proposed arrangement, it is claimed, would eliminate the present high costs involved in the registration of warrants against the general fund during lean tax periods.

The state budget now carries a $1,500,000 appropriation to defray the interest charges on registered warrants.

He Was the Largest of His Kind



This skeleton of the largest species of South American prehistoric ground sloth, and one of the largest of all prehistoric creatures, has just been assembled and placed on exhibition at the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago. It is believed to be the only complete Nogatherium skeleton in any North American museum. The animal is 18 feet long from nose to tail. The specimen was collected by an expedition to Argentina sponsored by Marshall Field.

State Teletype To Add Six Stations

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— Addition of six new stations next month to California's private teletype system will give the state an outstanding communication system connecting peace officers with the state bureau of criminal identification and investigation.

Under terms of a bill approved by Gov. Frank F. Merriam, new teletype stations are to be established by the state in Redding, Merced, Martinez, Modesto, Visalia and Riverside. In addition the state bureau will take over a teletype office in San Jose which has been supported in the past by Santa Clara county.

Addition of these points will make a total of 41 stations in 32 cities, according to Clarence Morrill, chief of the bureau of criminal identification.

"The ultimate expansion of the teletype system would call for stations in Inyo county, Placerville, one at each of the highway border checking stations, and one at either Oroville or Quincy when the new Feather river highway is completed," Morrill said.

"Such a setup would give us a check on every important highway in California."

In addition to proving a tremendous aid to police and sheriffs in their fight against crime, the communication system has been a good business investment for the state in other ways.

The system has been made available to other state agencies for official business and bureau officials estimated that this use, estimated on the basis of regular telegraphic rates, would cost the state approximately $290,000 a year.

The over-all cost of the state teletype system is approximately $120,000 a year, Morrill said. The system is kept open 16 hours a day every day in the year.

More People Receive State Aid This Year

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— Without considering the additional thousands who will be eligible to state aid under the liberalized old age security act, the number of persons receiving aid from the state already has increased 15 per cent in the past year, according to records of the department of social welfare.

"One year ago 38,084 persons were receiving aid, whereas at the present time there are 43,820 persons being helped by the state," the department reported.

In addition applications are pending for 3,479 persons, an increase of 49 per cent compared with a year ago.

Department records show that 21,310 persons are receiving aid under the old age security act, 3,545 blind persons and 18,965 children are being helped.

It has been estimated that as many as 150,000 aged persons will be eligible for state aid when the new act becomes effective September 15.

The new law reduces the minimum age limit from 70 to 65 years and provides other changes which will make more persons eligible under this social legislation. When federal aid is available, the minimum residence requirement also will be reduced from 15 to nine years.

Tuberculosis Death Rate Still Shows Decrease

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— California's tuberculosis death rate continues to show a substantial decrease, it was revealed in a report prepared by the state department of public health.

"It is interesting to note that last year 1,606 fewer cases and 411 fewer deaths were reported than during the year 1932. The death rate also fell from 84.4 to 71 per 100,000 population," the report stated.

Records show 10,399 tuberculosis cases in 1932; 9,482 in 1933, and 8793 in 1934. During that period the deaths dropped from 5,020 to 4,609.

The report referred to this downward trend in tuberculosis deaths as "most outstanding," and comparing favorably with reports of Texas, Massachusetts and Illinois.

Peace in the World

THE question of peace has never more insistently occupied men's attention than it does today. And yet, in spite of all the thought that is being given to this question, peace seems still afar off.

We have advanced to the point of looking for a world peace—a comprehensive peace—but mankind generally does not understand the idea of peace in its essence. Apart from the multiplicity of problems to be resolved into harmony, there is a complexity of beliefs regarding what constitutes peace. Men believe there are many phases of peace—the peace of the individual, of the home, of industry, of the nation. . . .

Peace is not primarily the absence of sickness, the elimination of strife in the home or society, nor the absence of war among the nations. The absence of these things is assured as peace is gained, but is not peace in itself, for peace is the realization of the omnipresence of God, good. All strife is strife within the human so-called mind, strife as between the highest good realizable and something lower than the best.

Even when two or more individuals seem to be engaged in strife the problem is reducible to the conflict between good and evil within the consciousness of those concerned. If good predominates in one's consciousness the strife will in that measure diminish; for whilst hate cannot cure hate, nor selfishness eliminate selfishness, the substitution of love for hate, and unselfishness for selfishness, must finally bring about a complete cessation of clamor for all. Mary Baker Eddy says in her Message to The Mother Church for 1900 (p. 8), "When a man begins to quarrel with himself he stops quarrelling with others." The quarrel with himself is the strife of good with evil, the strife of the higher with the lower; and it is a strife which can have but one end, namely, peace, for the divine Mind consciously expressed dissipates and destroys that which is unreal and false.

Just as strife touches only the so-called human mind, so peace is realized only as the presence of God, divine Mind, is understood. There is one infinite peace, the peace of God, and men today must find that peace before they can find its effects, either individually, in the home, in business, in social circles, or in international questions.

Today men say that peace depends upon the turn of events in the world's affairs—events such as partial or total disarmament, or upon other international questions of the moment. Peace, however, does not depend upon these events: these events depend upon humanity's realization of peace. The world is where it is today because peace as the result of knowing God is not generally realized. Mankind is not yet awake to the real meaning of peace, and no fully satisfactory result can possibly be reached until the peoples of the world realize that peace does not depend upon single or contingent events, but on the presence of God in the heart.

Every man who turns away from contention and strife in the human field and holds his thought unreservedly to God, will find peace from all the strife which seems to rage about him. He will find his feet on the rock which cannot be moved, for he will be supported and sustained by the infinite God. This assuredly is the meaning of Christ Jesus' statement: "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid" (John 14:27). The issues of the nations can be resolved only as this peace is understood; and each man who seeks, finds, and holds fast to the presence of the infinite is doing much to promote world peace.

The question arises, If the other man does not cease to oppose, is he to have the advantage of his contention? . . . The wrong qualities which lead to strife are the opposites of the attributes of God, and they fall powerless before the demonstration of God's presence as Love. Seeing through the mist of evil and beholding only God, good, in his neighbor, one will find indeed that only God is there, and that man is undisturbed by any evil force. This is the demonstration of Christian Science, the realization of God as ever present and all-powerful. It is the demonstration of peace in the individual heart; and because nations are composed of individuals it is by right thinking about God and about peace that peace will come to a troubled world.—The Christian Science Monitor.

Motorists Must Pay Overlapping Taxes

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— California motorists will pay personal property taxes on their cars twice in one year when the state assumes collection of the levy next January, but there is no way it can be avoided according to attorney General U. S. Webb.

Change in the date of collection in the overlapping, it was explained Under the old law, cities and counties required car owners to pay personal property taxes for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Webb ruled no adjustment could be expected for the overlapping six months because there was no provision in the constitution covering such procedure.

Kennett Dam Would Help River Navigation

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— River navigation comparable to that of the '50s, when bulky sailing vessels transported miners and supplies into California during the gold rush days, may be possible in the Sacramento valley when the Central Valleys Water Project is completed.

This prediction was made by State Engineer Edward Hyatt in discussing the effect the proposed Kennett Dam would have on the sluggish Sacramento river.

In early days before the Mother Lode country was attacked by swarms of gold seekers who sent debris into the upper reaches of the Sacramento and its feeder streams, navigation was such that the waterway was the most popular avenue of travel between the mining country and San Francisco.

Deposits of mining debris, however, gradually closed the channel to commercial navigation in the upper reaches, and now winter steamers make Colusa their upstream terminus. During the summer, practically all navigation ends at Sacramento.

Construction of Kennett Dam would permit the water flow to be made more constant throughout the year.

"Not only would the project restore to the Sacramento river all the navigation it ever had before, but extend facilities of the stream beyond anything in the past," Hyatt said.

Engineers estimate the dam would assure the river a depth of four feet at Red Bluff and six feet at Chico Landing all year. This would permit river steamer traffic as far upstream as Chico Landing, with minor navigation possible beyond that point. Summer releases of water from the dam would permit steamers to go 100 miles further inland than they now can travel due to hazardous conditions and shifting bars.

Business interests in the valley estimate the navigation aspect alone would ultimately mean millions to agricultural and shipping interests of northern interior California.

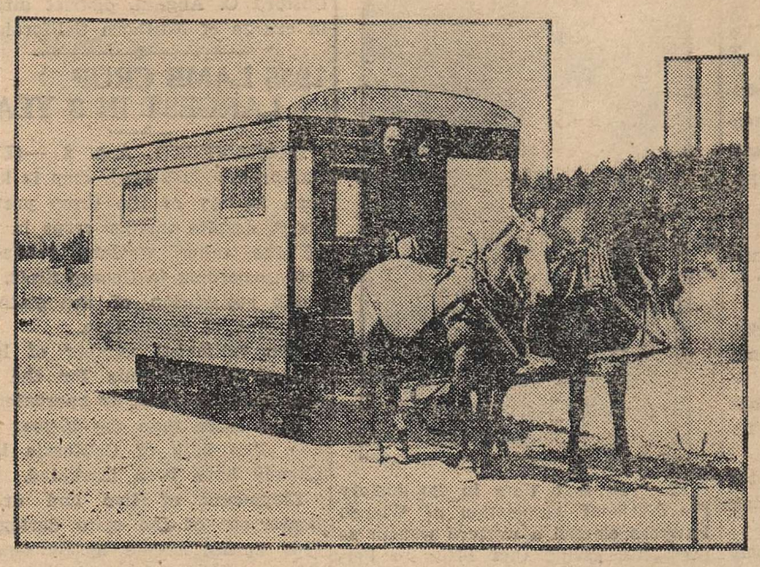
Christian Science

In all Christian Science churches branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read Sunday, August 11, on the subject "Spirit."

The Golden Text will be: "He that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting" (Gal. 6: 8). Bible selections will include the following passage from I Cor. 2: 12, 13: "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "The false evidence of material sense contrasts strikingly with the testimony of Spirit. Material sense lifts its voice with the arrogance of reality and says: I am wholly dishonest, and no man knoweth it. Spirit, bearing opposite testimony, saith: I am Spirit. Man, whose senses are spiritual, is my likeness. I am the substance of all because I am that I am" (pp.252, 253).

"Covered Wagon" in Yellowstone Park



Mr. and Mrs. George W. Scott of Arcadia, Neb., are using this novel vehicle as their means of transport through Yellowstone park. They have found that it eliminates haste, dust and smoke. They are making their way through the park leisurely and plan to spend several months exploring every roadway and trail. When the going gets too tough for their combination wagon and automobile chassis, they unhitch their ponies and take to the saddle.

Central Valleys Project To Provide Cheaper Power

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— California's immense Central Valleys Water Project, to be financed and constructed by the federal reclamation bureau, probably will provide cheaper power under present plans than the project could if financed by revenue bonds, State Engineer Edward Hyatt reported upon his return from Washington.

The power and water project, which may in time rival the Tennessee Water Authority, will be started this fall, Hyatt believes, after federal engineers have made a final study of plans and specifications.

President Roosevelt allocated $20,000,000 to the reclamation bureau to finance work in the valleys during the first year. Eventually, $170,000,000 will be spent if the project is carried through to completion. It is the belief that this money will be advanced by the federal government as a loan on a 40-year basis, to be repaid from funds obtained from the sale of water and power.

Federal engineers will direct the building of the project, and federal officials will have complete supervision of the sale of power. This arrangement is perfectly satisfactory to state officials, Hyatt said, since the sole object of intensive work during the past several years was to get started on the project itself and obtain federal financing.

Because the federal government will demand no interest on the huge loan, power rates probably will be lower than anticipated, Hyatt believed. Financing of the project will depend on power sales to a large degree, although sale of water also will have a bearing on the enterprise.

Reclamation engineers are expected here August 12 to begin looking over plans and inspecting dam sites. Hyatt hopes they will follow the state engineering setup as to the priority of units in the project, but he admitted this would be entirely up to the federal engineers.

Under the state's plans the first year's program would center on the Kennett Dam area and include the relocation of railroad and highway lines and excavation on the dam itself. Also, work would be done on the Friant dam, the Friant-Kern and Madera canals and the pumping system at the confluence of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers. Some 9,000 men would be put to work within 12 months.

The Central Valleys Water Project is one of 31 projects in the national program which the federal government is placing under the reclamation bureau. The state's engineering forces will cooperate in all respects but the project itself will be constructed by the bureau. The California Water Authority, which has handled developments of the project thus far, will have no legal standing.

responsibility for liquor enforcement in his or her own district, and terminate the previous system of dividing authority between board operatives and local police.

Her recommendations were accepted. Corbett alone voted against changing the chairmanship, and declined to comment on the action.

"I hope there will be no further friction," Miss Shontz said. "I believe the board will perform harmoniously from now on."

She hoped the public would not form the wrong impression about her changing.

"I'm a woman," she chuckled, "and I guess I'm entitled to change my mind after seven months of experience on the board."

Clem Whitaker, who handled publicity for the board before the January break, was brought back indirectly when the members voted to retain the "Clem Whitaker Advertising Agency" at $200 a month. Others of the old Stewart-Collins staff will be back within a month, it was generally predicted.

MEDICAL FAKERS BEING EXPOSED

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— California's battle against medical fakers is progressing steadily, according to a report of the state board of medical examiners.

Another outbreak of the "handkerchief racket" recently attracted the attention of the board.

"California citizens are being victimized, it would appear, from investigations of the board, by an eastern company which is obtaining funds from sick and afflicted persons through the well-known handkerchief racket," a board report stated.

"This firm advises the sick that be mailing a handkerchief to the company, naturally accompanied by a certain sum of money, the handkerchief will be blessed and returned to the sender, resulting in the patient recovering.

"The present racket includes instructions to the patient that no food is to be taken during the time the handkerchief is in transit. As a result one man was narrowly saved from death by starvation, his plight being discovered by neighbors."

Reporting on their other investigations made by the board, the summary said.

"Such work uncovered persons who apparently are making an easy living from Old Sol's resources by advertising sun bathing facilities as a form of medical treatment. Electric treatments and the treatment of eyes by the use of colored lights shared first place with spiritual treatments in cases uncovered in the southern part of the state."

Aggie Enrollment Breaks All Records

DAVIS, Cal., Aug. 8—(UP)—Judged by early registration, the local branch college of agriculture of the University of California will break all records for enrollment this fall.

To date, 195 new students have applied for entrance, according to Mrs. John Dennis, recorder at the college. This exceeded by 45 the number of students who had registered at the corresponding time last year.

Based on present enrollment, between 650 and 700 students were expected to attend the college during the next semester. The existing record for high attendance, 506, was established in the 1934-35 term.

STATE LEADS NATION IN BUILDING ACTIVITY

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— Tossing tribute to California as the foremost state participating in government insured loans under the National Housing Act, which indicates that it leads the nation in building activities, W. D. Flanders, director of the field division of the Federal Housing Administration, arrived here this week from Washington, D. C.

He was accompanied by Robert M. Catharine, deupty administrator, and they came to the Pacific Coast to preside at a better housing conference in San Francisco attended by 50 Housing Administration executives representing 12 Western States.

Flanders stated his stay here would be limited because of the press of urgent business in Washington resulting from a rapidly increasing demand for government insured loans.

"The sharp upsweep in building activity can be credited largely to the low cost, long term financing permitted under the National Housing Act," he said. "National Statistics just compiled reveal that residential building permits for June were 228 per cent ahead of the same month last year. Tuesday, July 23, was an all-high for a single day of mortgages selected for appraisal, the total being $3,297,470. The records show that of the mortgages accepted for insurance, 41 per cent are for new construction.

"All previous records were broken during the past week for loans on new construction and refinancing. The total volume of mortgages selected for appraisal during the week was $9,030,170. This compares with the previous high of $8,139,486. All records also were broken during the week for modernization loans, when the total reached $4,816,128, as against the previous highs of $4,305,158 for the week ending July 20, and $4,282,137 for the week ending July 13."

Acting as hosts to the visiting government officials are Alfred B. Swinerton, regional director, and Clifford C. Anglim, district director in charge of Northern California.

1935 LAMB CROP LARGEST IN 3 YEARS

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— California's 1935 lamb crop is larger than in any of the three previous years, despite smaller crops in most of the other western production areas,according to George Scott, livestock statistician of the state department of agriculture.

The estimated number of lambs docked in California for the 1935 season is 2,200,000, or approximately 100,000 more than the 10-year average. The bulk of California lambs already have been marketed.

Shipments of live and dressed lambs out of the state during the 1935 spring season nearly equalled the record number of 1929, Scott said. This year shipments to other states amounted to 570,000 head for the period March to June, inclusive. Last year the corresponding total was 448,000 head.

The United States lamb crop of 27,630,000 head was 7 per cent under last year and the smallest since 1929, according to federal reports received by the department.

Plans To Speed Up Veterans Home Loans

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— Plans for speeding up home loans to veterans from the $30,000,000 bond issue approved by the voters last fall were announced by Chairman Thomas Foley of the veterans' welfare board.

Under the new setup, Foley said he hopes to be able to grant loans within 30 days after selection certificates have been filed by the applicants. The procedure formerly required as much as four months.

Veterans will be encouraged to spend the money for new construction as an aid in relieving unemployment, Foley said.

No Change in Game Laws For Deer Hunting

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8 —(UP)— No changes in the game laws will confront California nimrods when the deer hunting season opens August 1, according to George D. Nordenholt, director of natural resources.

An attempt to revise the dates of deer seasons was made by the last legislature, but the bill was pocket-vetoed by the governor. The measure failed of approval, it was said, because amendments attached to it defeated the original purpose of setting up two seasons only to cover the entire state.

The season opening August 1 is effective in districts No. 2, 2½ and 3, in the coastal region.

JUDGE WITHHELD VOTING COUPONS

LODI, Cal., Aug. 8—(UP)— John Engel was somewhat ired when Police Judge J. E. Hopkins failed to hand over voting coupons in the carnival queen contest of the forthcoming grape festival.

His honor had just assessed a $5 fine for drunkenness. To Engel's astonishment, no coupons were given in exchange for the money.

It was the only place in town, Engel complained, where a cash customer wasn't given an opportunity to vote in the contest.

It does seem as if the blues always are favorite tunes of the Reds.

Noted Hunter Kills 500th Mountain Lion

PLACERVILLE, Aug. 8 — (UP)— Jay Bruce, noted California hunter, recently reported he had killed his 500th mountain lion.

The animal was slain in the Bubicon river district near here. It increased the total of lions he had killed in the El Dorado national forest to 130, Bruce said.
